Access property sales information on NSW Globe

New South Wales property sales prices dating back to 2001 can now be accessed free of charge on NSW Globe <http://globe.six.nsw.gov.au/>. Property sales information at a street and suburb level is also available for the last five years.

LPI launched NSW Globe in 2013. NSW Globe is a free and easily accessible product that displays NSW Government maps and spatial data, including land parcel, property address and road information, plus land values. The addition of property sales information complements the layers already available.

Buying a home is often the most significant financial investment people make in their lifetime. Land and property information available through NSW Globe can help people make informed decisions when buying and selling property. Providing property sales information at no charge is also consistent with LPI's commitment to the NSW Government's Open Data Policy.
